

Table for two

(SW-9900)

I'm setting up a table for two

I'm sitting here waiting for you

I'm not use to it I'm not use to being alone

It's so quiet in what we use to call our home our home

How am I supposed to to just forget

Can I just snap my fingers twice so you'll be out of my head?

How am I suppose to move on without you here

Cause waking ups the worst knowing that you won't be here

It hurts It hurts when I breathe

It hurts It hurts when I think about you

Everything around makes me miss you

To the hairbrush by the sink and to the perfume

How am I supposed to to just forget

Can I just snap my fingers twice so you'll be out of my head?

How am I suppose to move on without you here

Cause waking ups the worst knowing that you won't be here

The doctors told me the news

I was losing you

You said try to forget me

Its better if you could

Find someone who'll make you happy

Cause I won't be around to

How am I supposed to to just forget

Can I just snap my fingers twice so you'll be out of my head?

How am I suppose to move on without you here

I guess I'll have to join you up there

And when I wake up I'll see you again.
